Medical examiner rules on cause of deaths of girls found in suitcases

Two young girls whose bodies were found buried in suitcases in Cleveland's South Collinwood neighborhood died by homicide and malnutrition, according to the Cuyahoga County Medical Examiner's Office.

The medical examiner ruled that 10-year-old Amor Wilson and 8-year-old Mila Chatman died of "homicide by unspecified means with malnutrition," records released Thursday show.

The sisters' mother, Aliyah Henderson, 28, caused the deaths of the children sometime between Nov. 12, 2025, and Mar. 2, 2026, court records show.

Henderson remains jailed on a series of charges, including four counts of aggravated murder, four counts of murder, six counts of kidnapping, four counts of felonious assault, three counts of child endangering, one count of tampering with evidence and two counts of gross abuse of a corpse, in connection with their deaths. She has pleaded not guilty.

The girls' bodies were discovered on March 2 after a man walking his dog near East 162nd called 911, prosecutors said. As detectives searched the area, they found a second suitcase buried nearby containing the body of another child, a few hundred feet away from Henderson's home. Investigators identified

Henderson as a suspect within 48 hours and arrested her on March 5 after executing a search warrant at a home on East 162nd Street. Officers also found another child inside the residence who appeared to be healthy. The child was placed in custody of the Cuyahoga County Division of Children and Family Services.

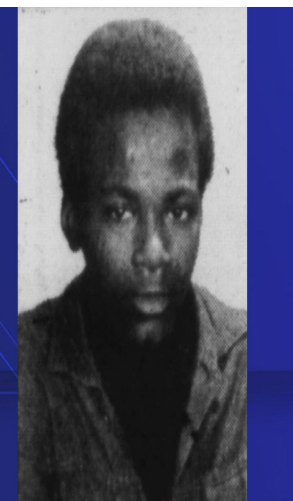

Earlier this month, Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Judge William Vodrey ordered Henderson to undergo a competency evaluation to determine whether she can stand trial.

Henderson remains in the Cuyahoga County jail on a $2 million bond. She is due back in court on Wednesday, records show.

Funeral services for Amor Wilson and Mila Chatman were held on Wednesday March 25, 2026 at the Mount Sinai Friendship United in Cleveland. The two sisters were found buried in suitcases on March 2, 2026.

No closure for Mitchell family as case remains cold

Just before Christmas of 2025 Cuyahoga County Medical Examiner's Office Issues New Ruling in Danny Mitchell Case from 1980 CLEVELAND – Cuyahoga County Medical Examiner Dr. Thomas P. Gilson today announced a ruling change to homicide in the 1980 case of Danny Mitchell. Mitchell, 20, was found in Cleveland, OH, on May 17, 1980. The case was originally ruled "undetermined" by Dr. Samuel Gerber due to advanced mumification and partial skeletonization. The cause and manner of death have been changed to "homicide" by unspecified means.

Mitchell

"This is a significant step in our investigation into the death of Danny Mitchell. Having an identification helped our review of Danny's death. The sum of the investigation points to foul play," said Dr. Gilson. "While we cannot say with certainty what type of violence caused this death, the circumstances are indicative of homicide. By working with our partners, our next step will hopefully involve bringing the person or persons responsible for Danny Mitchell's death to justice."

Danny Lee Mitchell, 20, was reported missing by his family on April 2, 1980. He was last seen at 6319 Euclid Avenue in Cleveland, wearing blue jeans, a black jacket, an orange flower shirt, and black shoes wkyc.com. On May 17, 1980, unidentified remains were found at 2041 East 65th Street. Due to advanced mumification and partial skeletonization, the case was originally ruled "undetermined"

The case remained cold until 2017, when Mitchell's family recognized a facial reconstruction of "John Doe" presented by Twinsburg

Police. They reported him as a possible match to the Ohio Bureau of Criminal Investigation (BCI).

Initial DNA testing (2023): Confirmed a maternal relationship to Mitchell's siblings but not enough for positive ID.

Investigative genetic genealogy (2024): Using the same technique that helped solve the Golden State Killer case, genealogists at Innovative Forensic Investigations uploaded the DNA profile to GEDmatch Pro and confirmed a positive sibling relationship

Final confirmation: In February 2025, NCMEC and BCI confirmed the remains belonged to Danny Mitchell Hoodline.

With the identification, the Cuyahoga County Medical Examiner, Dr. Thomas P. Gilson, reviewed the evidence and concluded the manner of death is homicide by unspecified means While the exact type of violence cannot be confirmed, the totality of the investigation points to foul play

Authorities said the next step was to bring the person or persons responsible to justice. The case remains open, and the public is encouraged to provide any information that could help solve it

Incident date: April 2, 1980 (reported missing)

Death date: May 17, 1980

Family and friends walk to remember Christion Olson

More than two years after 18-year-old Christion Olson died from injuries that were ruled a homicide, his family is still waiting for answers.

Family, friends and supporters walked through Medina Public Square to keep Christion's memory alive.

The family said Christion returned home on July 13, 2024, after being with friends in Brunswick Hills, suffering from critical internal injuries. He later died at the hospital. Police ruled his death a homicide.

"There's still unsolved questions and we just want to keep his name alive. The more we can do that, the more the awareness can become," said Christopher Olson, Christion's father.

His parents said the walk is about remembering their son and making sure people know his story. Even now, Rochelle said some members of the community are just learning about what happened.

"It's just very odd that, you know, there's not more awareness. Even two years later, we still have people come up and say that they had no idea," said Rochelle Olson, Christion's mother.

The loss has changed their lives forever. They remember Christion as a caring young man who loved to sing, dance and make people smile. His parents said their lives have been frozen in time ever since.

"Our life is stuck on July 13, 2024. Every day it's a struggle to even open your eyes and get out of the bed," said Rochelle.

As the investigation remains open, the family is still searching for answers. His parents believe someone knows what happened, and they're urging that person to come forward.

"To the person that knows what happened to our son that evening, we ask that you come forward. We ask that you think of how your parents and family and friends would feel," said Rochelle. "Anything, any tip could be the one thing that could open this investigation wide up, please do not be afraid," she said.

Gasoline prices lower for holiday

As millions of drivers filled up and hit the road for the long Independence Day weekend, gas prices were the lowest they've been in several weeks. The national average is down 40 cents from a month ago at $3.79 for a gallon of regular. While that number is higher than last year, it's a relief from this past spring, when the national average peaked at $4.56 on May 21. Crude oil prices have fallen to their lowest levels in months, dropping to the $65 per barrel range.

According to new data from the Energy Information Administration (EIA), gasoline demand increased last week from 8.77 million barrels per day to 9.13 million. Total domestic gasoline supply decreased from 216.3 million barrels to 214 million. Gasoline production increased last week, averaging 10 million barrels per day.

At the close of Wednesday's formal trading session, West Texas Intermediate fell 92 cents to settle at $68.58 a barrel. The EIA reports that crude oil inventories decreased by 3.8 million barrels from the previous week. At 408.4 million barrels, U.S. crude oil inventories are about 7% below the five-year average for this time of year.

Help navigating inflation for small businesses

Inflation is a big concern for America's more than 32 million small business owners, but there are solutions, according to a recent survey.

Nearly one in three business owners report feeling extremely worried about inflation and rank it as a top business concern, and another 62.5% say they're generally concerned about inflation and are keeping an eye on rising prices, according to the new survey data from SCORE, mentors to America's small businesses and a resource partner of the U.S. Small Business Administration.

SCORE's Spring 2022 Megaphone of Main Street: Inflation & the Economy report found only 7% of small businesses are not troubled about inflation while three out of four small business owners report mixed feelings about the economy overall.

While finding customers remains a serious problem for small business owners (51.8%), cash flow (35.9%), inflation (33.9%) and supply chain disruptions (30%) are all rapidly growing issues as the economy remains tumultuous.

Many small business owners (62.7%) have seen their profits decline over the past six months. Meanwhile, rising costs cause cash flow problems for one-third (35.9%) of the small business owners surveyed. Vendors and suppliers are charging 65.7% of business owners more than they were six months ago. More than half of business owners (53.5%) now pay more for utilities (including gas). Only 15.5% reported profits were higher than expected.

To improve profitability, some small business owners are seeking more profitable clients, some are adjusting their product mix or improving technology, most are raising prices.

All but 7.8% of those surveyed have raised prices by 5% to 20%, with an average increase of 11%.

Fortunately, SCORE can make a difference. "Small business owners have been inundated with curve balls throughout the past two years with no signs of slowing down," explains SCORE Vice President of External Relations Betsy Dougert. "We want entrepreneurs to know they are not on this journey alone. SCORE has a plethora of resources, including small business experts, to help them navigate challenges and thrive."

SCORE — a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization—supports small businesses during difficult times. Since 1964, it has helped 11 million entrepreneurs start or grow a business. SCORE's 10,000 volunteers provide free workshops and educational services to over 1,500 communities nationwide, creating 25,084 new businesses and 71,475 non-owner jobs in 2022 alone.

Israeli ministers announce plans for new illegal settlements in Gaza and West Bank

Israel's defence and finance ministers announced plans for three illegal settlements in Gaza and more than $400m (£300m) in funding to expand construction in the occupied West Bank, as Israel's military commander for the region celebrated violent outposts as his "security partners."

With national elections scheduled for 27 October, Benjamin Netanyahu's far-right coalition is racing to expand control of land in occupied Palestine and drive out Palestinians before its mandate expires.

The defence minister, Israel Katz, said he intended to set up three "Nahal" outposts in northern Gaza, a type of military community that for decades has paved the way for Israeli civilian settlements.

The finance minister, Bezalel Smotrich, announced 1.3bn shekels (£318m) in funding for dozens of new Israeli settlements in the occupied West Bank. The cabinet allocated the money last month but kept the decision secret because of expected US opposition, Israeli media reported.

Maj Gen Avi Bluth, who commands Israeli forces in the West Bank, told residents of extremist outposts that he "appreciates their work" and considered them to be partners in security with the military.

Bluth, who grew up in a West Bank settlement himself, spoke on Wednesday at a meeting of the euphemistically named Farms Association, which represents settlements that are illegal even under Israeli law.

Palestinians brace for more violence by settlers. The settlers are in violation of Israeli and International law.

The NGO pointed out in its letter to Yifat Tomer-Yerushalmis office, that although there have been rights violations in the West Bank on a daily basis, this was the first time, that a General had publicly boasted about his troops participation.

A Look At My World

After all, a penny is a penny

By Dr. JAMES L. SNYDER

As I was leaving the post office, I hurried across the parking lot to get to my vehicle. As I usually do, I kept my eyes focused on the ground as I walked to my vehicle.

Then, I saw it. There it was in all of its stunning beauty. I stopped for a few moments to look at it, and then bent over and picked it up. It was a penny. That's right, one cent.

I couldn't wait to get home to show it to The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage. She knows how much I love collecting pennies. Of course, I have other coins as well, but it's so great to walk in a parking lot and find a Penny.

Walking in the front door of the house, I shouted, "Honey, I'm home. You'll never guess what I found today."

She shouted back at me, "Let me guess. You found a penny in the parking lot."

Quite stunned, I replied, "How did you know?"

"Well," she said, "I knew you were going to the post office which has a large parking lot and you always find a penny in the parking lot. So I really wasn't guessing I just knew what you found."

I walked into the kitchen where she was and showed her the penny I found at the parking lot. With a great smile on my face, I said, "Isn't this penny beautiful?"

"You do know," she said, "that a penny is only a penny?"

"I know a penny is a penny and I've been collecting them for years."

She wasn't really impressed with my obsession with coins. I had a fairly large coin collection, and I can always add to it, even if it's just a penny.

I tried to explain to her that 100 pennies equal one dollar, and even if it's just a penny, collecting them is about enjoying the small wins and the simple pleasures in life, which I believe everyone can appreciate.

What I find intriguing about pennies in a parking lot is that they don't cost anything. These tiny treasures bring me simple happiness, and I enjoy the feeling of finding something free and unexpected.

The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage is one of those BOGO shoppers, and she's quite proud of how she can really get bargains. When you buy one and then get one free, that means they're half the cost. Anytime you can save money is okay with me.

I spent some time in the afternoon looking at my collection of pennies. I knew all of the parking lots where I found a penny. I've been on vacation and found a penny in a parking lot. I can't tell you how much ple-sure I get just looking at these pennies I found. Pennies that cost me nothing, I like.

There was that one time when The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage came home and said, "You'll never guess what I found today. I found a quarter in the Publix parking lot." Then she laughed most hysterically.

She came into my office, where I was working, held up that quarter, and said to me, "See, a quarter is much more than a penny." All she talked about that day was the quarter she found in the parking lot. A quarter equals 25 pennies. Duh!

I knew what she was doing, and I congratulated her on her wonderful findings for the day. I know that quarter will be used in her BOGO shopping. Believe me, I was happy for her.

Once in a while, I'll find a quarter or a nickel or even a dime, which brings me great pleasure, I can assure you.

I know these parking lot findings are really that valuable. But, as I tell The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage, they're all free. And that makes them special to me.

This will never happen, but one day I would love to find a $100 bill in a parking lot. That thrill of surprise would make my day, and I'd be eager to share it with The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage.

Since the government has stopped producing pennies, maybe one day my collection will be worth a lot. Until then, I appreciate how my frugal habits, like saving pennies, reflect a wise approach to life and money.

My father passed his frugal attitude down to me. Because of that, I have a great deal of respect for coins like pennies. I believe it's not how much you make in life, but how much you spend. A friend won a million-dollar lottery. Within two years, he was bankrupt.

Another attitude of my father was that it's not how much you make, but how deep in debt you are. And I've been very careful over the years not to get into debt. I don't need the best of things or the latest; just what I can afford.

One of my favorite Bible verses is 1 Timothy 6:10. "For the love of money is the root of all evil: which while some coveted after, they have erred from the faith, and pierced themselves through with many sorrows."

Many people misunderstand this verse and use it out of context. Money is not the problem; the "love of money is the root of all evil." I need money to live, but I must realize that there is more in my life than money.

serve Paratroopers Brigade. In 2017, he was appointed as the commander of the 89th Commando Brigade and in 2018 he was chosen to be the next Military Secretary to the Prime Minister.

While serving as the Military Secretary to the Prime Minister, he was reprimanded by the Chief of the General Staff, Gadi Eisenkot on January 4, 2019, for not delivering on time the Prime Minister's directive to delay the evacuation of Amona. In 2021, he was appointed as the commander of the Judea and Samaria Division.

On June 20, 2024, Bluth was promoted to the rank of Aluf (major general), and on July 8, 2024, he was appointed as the commander of the Central Command (Israel).

In August 2025 the Israeli NGO "Association for Civil Rights in Israel" (ACRI) requested the chief military advocates office to investigate Avi Bluth for possible war crimes. The general had announced in an interview that villages which were home to Palestinian "terrorists" would pay a heavy price and could be surrounded, subjected to a curfew or "landscape remodeling."

After the interview, Bluth's soldiers destroyed hundreds of trees in Palestinian orchards around the village al-Mughayyir.

The NGO pointed out in its letter to Yifat Tomer-Yerushalmis office, that although there have been rights violations in the West Bank on a daily basis, this was the first time, that a General had publicly boasted about his troops participation.

CLE's virtual 1st Place standing bodes well

BY KARL BRYANT

Start saving up now for Post-Season baseball tickets in The Land. It's only July, but the Guardians chances of playing October baseball are looking pretty good.

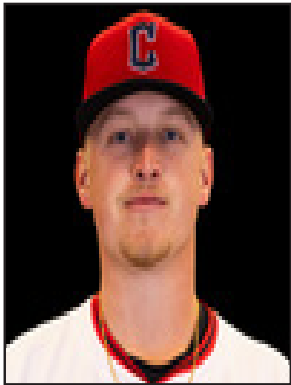

There's a couple of old axioms regarding a team's chances of ending up in 1st Place at the end of the season due to where they sat in the

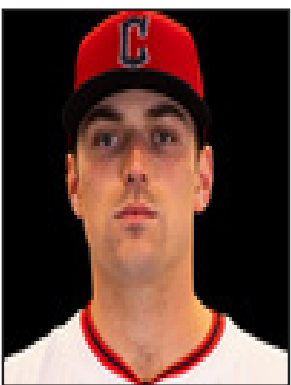

Ramirez

Martinez

Messick

Smith

standings earlier in the year. One is about being in 1st Place on the 4th of July and the other is about being in 1st Place at the All-Star Game break. The Guardians were in a virtual tie for 1st with Chicago on both occasions this year, so they virtually have a good chance of being atop the standings at season's end. Virtually.

Of course, last year, CLE set the MLB record of being the farthest out of 1st Place - 15 1/2 games - and then finishing atop the division standings. That proved that no Old Wives' Tale is safe when the Guardians are around.

Up to this point, CLE's pitching has been able to hold opposition batters to minimal damage while the team's Offense is weathering injuries to key players. Rookies and young players have made an impact. The expectation is that the youngsters will continue to improve. Plus, Jose Ramirez and Angel Martinez will be returning from the Injured List

CLE finished the "1st Half" of the season by sweeping the Marlins in a three-game series in FLA by scores of 3-2, 4-1, and 5-2. The White Sox swept the A's at the same time by scores of 14-1, 1-0, and 9-1, to keep a virtual tie - actually a miniscule .0006 percentage points ahead.

During the All-Star break, the AL beat the NL, 4-0, in the Midsummer Classic. Pundits predicted that the Senior Circuit would pound the Junior Circuit because, in the "1st Half" of the season, they've posted a better record. Instead, the NL suffered the indignity of having the AL throw a Shutout against them.

CLE had three players participate in the All-Star Game. Rookie P Parker Messick retired the three batters he faced (w/one K) in the 2nd Inning. Closer Cade Smith retired the three he faced (w/two Ks) in the 6th. Rookie 2B Travis Bazzana was 0 for 2, but reached base on fielder's choice. By the way, Chicago's Miguel Vargas got the only extra base hit of the contest with a long HR in the 8th Inning.

So now the "2nd Half" begins with the Guardians hosting the NL Pirates in InterLeague Play this weekend while the ChiSox travel to the Great White North to face the Blue Jays.

Buckle up and get ready for the ride.

Johnson Runs Away from Field in Firestone Swan Song

BY KARL BRYANT

Firestone CC in Akron has hosted a PGA event for the last 73 years. That will be no more, at least in the foreseeable future. Zach Johnson, who just turned 50 to become eligible for the PGA Champions (Seniors) Tour, ran away from the field with a whopping six stroke victory in Firestone's Swan Song PGA event.

The Senior Players Championship, now under the auspices of the Kaulig Companies Championship, will move to the Pacific Coast next year. Any PGA Tour event that could come to NE Ohio in the future, will have to find a title sponsor.

Johnson made the most of his Rookie year on the Champions Tour by posting a -15, 265, for the tournament. He had a four-shot lead going into Sunday's final round and actually improved on it.

He won $525,000. Boo Weekly was runner-up at -9.

Zach Johnson, who just turned 50 to become eligible for the PGA Champions (Seniors) Tour, ran away from the field with a whopping six stroke victory in Firestone's Swan Song PGA event.

Rory Sabbatini was in 3rd Place at -8.

After winning his first PGA Champions Tour Major Tournament, Johnson made a case for the PGA to eventually return to Firestone, stating, "I love this place. I love it. I've loved it since I first stepped foot on it." In his admiration, he added, "I just think it fits me. It fits my eye, but it fits me in the sense that you can't fake it around here."

Fan favorite John Daly, who drew large galleries during the three rounds he completed before withdrawing, was presented the Ambassador of Golf Award by Northern Ohio Golf Charities for his devotion to the game and his philanthropic work.

Proclaimed a "national treasure" by the Los Angeles Times, GRAMMY® Award-winning singer, songwriter, producer, and actor Anthony Hamilton has achieved global sales of over 50+ million albums. The North Carolina Music Hall of Fame inductee notably performed for Nelson Mandela, President Obama and First Lady Michelle, and most recently President Joe Biden cementing his place in the history books as the "narrator of love."

Introduced by way of the iconic 2003 smash "Charlene," his raw, awe inspiring performances garnered the attention of NPR, where he starred in their Noteworthy documentary series. He appeared in American Gangster and lent his voice to "Freedom" from the Academy® Award-nominated Django Unchained. Hamilton sang the National Anthem at the 2019 NBA All-Star Game in his hometown of Charlotte and released his tenth full-length studio album, LOVE IS THE NEW BLACK, amid all the racial injustices of George Floyd and the COVID-19 global pandemic.

Hamilton signed with Uptown Records, an imprint of MCA Records to record his debut studio album XTC; scheduled for release in 1996, it was ultimately shelved due to its singles failing to chart. He then gained recognition for his guest performance on Nappy Roots' 2002 single "Po' Folks", which peaked at number 21 on the Billboard Hot 100 and led him to sign with Jermaine Dupri's So So Def Recordings, an imprint of Arista Records.

Hamilton's second studio album, Comin' from Where I'm From (2003) received platinum certification by the Recording Industry Association of America (RIAA), earned four Grammy Award nominations, and spawned the 2004 single "Charlene", which peaked at number 19 on the Billboard Hot 100. His third and fourth albums, Ain't Nobody Worryin' (2005) and The Point of It All (2008), both peaked within the top 20 of the Billboard 200 and received gold certifications by the RIAA. He then parted ways with So So Def in favor of RCA Records to release his fifth and sixth albums, Back to Love (2011) and What I'm Feelin' (2016). Hamilton has won a Grammy Award from 12 nominations, and is also known for his song "Freedom" (with Elayna Boynton), which he co-wrote and performed for the soundtrack album to the 2012 film Django Unchained.

Jodie Christian

Chicagoan Jodie Christian is a flawless jazz pianist whose fame came late perhaps because he remained in his hometown.

A self-described "professional sideman," he has performed and recorded with Stan Getz, Chet Baker, Sonny Stitt, Buddy Montgomery, Roscoe Mitchell and others since his career began nearly 50 years ago.

Early inspiration came from his parents, both self-taught pianist who played for church and house parties.

Christian studied at Chicago School of Music in the 1940s and fortified his piano technique by playing in church.

The life-long southsider was among charter members of Chicago's musician's cooperative, the Association for the Advancement of Creative Musicians in 1965.

Although avant garde influences are evident in Christian's playing, he considers himself a bebop-influenced player able to stretch out.

Christian began to gain wider notice after recording two albums as leader for Chicago's Delmark label and being chosen in 1994 as an Arts Midwest Jazz Master.

As well as a leader, Christian is a much-in-demand sideman and educator.

He is actively devoted to his community and conducts jazz programs in the public schools and performs in outdoor neighborhood concerts for Chicago's youth.

Da 'Round Da Way Rewind Review

The 'Scream' franchise of horror films

By C.M. APPLING

In the late 1970s, a new type of horror movie emerged in Hollywood called 'slasher' films. It began in 1978 with director John Carpenter's classic, Halloween, about an escaped mental patient named Michael Myers who tries to kill his sister, Laurie Strode (Jamie Lee Curtis) and her friends on Halloween night.

With the box office success that spine-chilling movie garnered, other slasher flicks followed quickly with their own, movie monsters: Friday the 13th (Jason Voorhees), A Nightmare On Elm Street (Freddy Krueger), I Know What You Did Last Summer (Ben Willis) and Candyman (Daniel Robitaille). But, after two decades of their formulaic frights, they grew increasingly less scary, more overly-predictable and composed of boring, disposable schlock.

That is, until Scream came along in 1996. Created by horror filmmaking veteran Wes Craven (who also made the A Nightmare On Elm Street franchise), Scream was different in its cinematic approach as its meta use of pop-culture awareness of horror films allowed its characters to knowingly play by the 'rules' of the slasher genre: (1) the Final Girl must be wholesome (if not a virgin), (2) the kids who do drugs and have sex are doomed, (3) always check out the love interest as the killer suspect, (4) the killer always targets the Final Girl's friends and family as victims (as one character explains the independent rules for the various sequels, trilogies, reboots, re-quels, franchises and legacy characters).

As a franchise, the Scream movies stand apart from the unkillable, immortal monsters like Michael Myers, Jason Voorhees and Daniel Robitaille by having real, human people as the Ghostface killers, who actually die at the end, which makes it more believable and realistic. Here is a synopsis of the various installments: Scream (1996) In Woodsboro, California, Sidney Prescott (Neve Campbell) is the Final Girl. Supporting characters include Tatum Riley (Sidney's best-friend), Dwight 'Dewey' Riley (Tatum's police deputy older brother), Gale Weathers (the tempestuous TV reporter), and Randy Meeks (the lovable film geek). The first, two Ghostfaces are Billy Loomis (Sidney's boyfriend) and Stu Macher (who both die in Stu's house). Cotton Weary (the man wrongly convicted of killing Sidney's mother Maureen), makes a cameo appearance.

Scream 2 (1997) At Windsor College in Ohio, Sidney has enrolled as a Theater major. The events of the first film have been made into a horror movie called 'Stab'. Gale Weathers has written a non-fiction, true-crime book called The Woodsboro Murders which is based on the original killings. On campus with Sidney, Ghostface is making a 'sequel' by slaying students because they have similar names to the original victims. Returning, legacy characters are Gale Weathers and Dewey Riley (who become attracted to each other), Randy Meeks (who is later killed), and the exonerated Cotton Weary. The two Ghostface killers are Film major Mickey Altieri and Debbie Salt a.k.a. Nancy Loomis (Billy Loomis' mother).

Scream 3 (2000) In Hollywood, California, Cotton Weary (who now has a talk show called '100 % Cotton') is killed by a new Ghostface. Sidney (who has been in hiding as a phone-in, women's abuse counselor), is reunited with Gale and Dewey when Ghostface starts to kill the movie cast of Stab 3: Return to Woodsboro. Randy appears in a posthumous video cameo. The single Ghostface is Roman Bridger: the film director of Stab 3 and who is Sidney's illegitimate, older half-brother by their former actress mother, Maureen.

Scream 4m (2011) Sidney Prescott returns to Woodsboro 10 years after the events of the first movie when Ghostface begins killing teenagers at Woodsboro High. Gale Weathers and Dewey Riley return as legacy characters. Now married, Dewey is the sheriff and Gale is a news anchor. New characters are Judy Hicks (the deputy sheriff) and Kirby Reed (a Randy-like, female horror film fanatic). The two Ghostface killers are Jill Roberts (Sidney's cousin and Kirby's best-friend) and Charlie Walker (another, male horror fan). NOTE: This was the last film in the franchise before creator Wes Craven died.

Scream (2022) As a reboot for the franchise, it takes place back in Woodsboro where there is a new, Final Girl, Samantha 'Sam' Carpenter. After her younger sister, Tara Carpenter, is attacked by a Ghostface, Sam must reveal to Tara she is actually the illegitimate daughter of Billy Loomis. This time, Ghostface is targeting the descendants of the original characters that include: half-black twins Chad and Mindy Meeks-Martin (the nephew and niece of Randy), and Wes Hicks (son of Judy Hicks). Legacy characters Sidney, Gale and Dewey reprise their roles but Gale and Dewey are divorced and Dewey dies in this installment. The two Ghostface killers are Richie Kirsch (Sam's boy-friend) and Amber Freeman (whose family moved into Stu's house).

Scream VI (2023) Sam and Tara Carpenter return as the half-sister, Final Girls who have now moved to New York where Sam works and Tara is enrolled at Blackmore University. With Tara on campus are new, legacy characters, twins Chad and Mindy. Gale also returns as does Kirby Reed (who is now an F.B.I. agent). This time, the killers leave the authentic Ghostface masks from the previous attacks to countdown to a showdown in a shrine dedicated to the murder artifacts from past films. The three Ghostfaces' are Richie Kirsch's father Detective Bailey, his brother Ethan and his sister Quinn. Billy Loomis has another cameo in Sam's hallucination. This is the only installment Sidney Prescott does not appear.

Scream 7 (2026) Now in Pine Grove, Indiana, Sidney Prescott-Evans is now married to police chief Mark with 17-year old daughter Tatum (Evans) and two, younger children (who haven't been seen yet). While managing a coffeehouse, Sidney's daughter Tatum is a theater student in high school.

A new Ghostface uses A.I. to create a deepfake of Stu Macher to hide their true identities. Gale returns as a reporter with Chad as her cameraman and Mindy as her assistant.

The three Ghostfaces are revealed to be escaped mental patient Karl Gibbs, the mental hospital supervisor Marco Davis and Sidney's next-door neighbor, Jessica Bowden. Marco and Jessica also use deepfakes of Nancy Loomis, Roman Bridger and Dewey to mentally torture Sidney in the finale.

Funding for the arts in Cuyahoga County -who decides who gets funding?

In Steven Litt’s article, “New reports praise Cuyahoga County public arts funding, look beyond cigarette tax,” discusses two new reports that provide evidence that there is robust public funding for the arts provided by Cuyahoga County’s cigarette tax is supporting a nationally significant cultural sector.

According to Litt, “The nonprofit Assembly for the Arts, a regional arts council, commissioned the study of alternative funding sources from SMU Data Arts and Lord Consulting to spark discussion among cultural leaders and supporters to start looking now for additional ways to support the arts across Greater Cleveland.

The cigarette tax supports Cuyahoga Arts and Culture, a political subdivision of the State of Ohio akin to Cleveland Metroparks. CAC distributes the proceeds of the tax to hundreds of cultural organizations and projects every year. Ideastream Public Media is a beneficiary.

County voters first passed a 30-cent-a-pack tax on cigarettes in 2006 to fund CAC for 10 years, followed by a 10-year renewal vote in 2015. In 2024, an increase of the tax from 30 to 70 cents per pack was approved by roughly 70% of voters.

The total raised by the tax between 2006 and 2025 was $270 million, according to CAC’s website. Yet over the two decades, a pattern emerged: Tax receipts declined as the number of smokers fell and sales decreased.

In 2025, before the increase from 2024 took full hold, the tax generated $11.3 million for distribution by CAC. This year, thanks to the increase, the annual total is expected to reach $18 million, CAC said in an email. But that’s the equivalent of just under $11 million in 2006 dollars, adjusted for inflation.

The second new report issued Thursday, authored by SMU DataArts with support from Bloomberg Associates, a pro bono consulting firm that’s part of Bloomberg Philanthropies, showed that thanks to the cigarette tax and other sources, Cleveland is a top performer in local public arts funding per capita and total revenue.

The report ranked Cleveland No. 1 revenue growth among arts organizations from 2019 to 2024 in a cohort of 10 U.S. cities. The others were Atlanta, Des Moines, Houston, Los Angeles, New York, Philadelphia, Phoenix, Sacramento and Seattle.

Bloomberg’s David Andersson, a co-author of the study, said the statistic was “a measure showing that people want arts and culture, they’re giving money to arts and culture, whether it’s through donations or purchasing tickets.”

The study also showed that Cleveland was number one in per capita local government grants to cultural organizations, at 10 cents per capita. Philadelphia was last, at one cent per capita.

To keep public arts funding strong in Greater Cleveland, the SMU Data Arts study examined strategies and practices in Denver, Pittsburgh, Portland, Ore., Minneapolis and Columbus.

The report’s authors highlighted the multi-county approach of the Allegheny Regional Asset District, or RAD, based in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County, as a possible model worth emulating. The district levies a 1% sales tax generating $120 million, the report said. Half of that money is used by 128 municipalities to support local tax relief and half supports libraries, parks, and arts and culture organizations.

The report also highlighted the “layered” approach of Columbus, where it said the nonprofit Greater Columbus Arts Council distributes revenue from a 5% ticket fee on large-scale commercial events over 400 seats, along with funds from the city’s bed tax and county general funds.”

Jen Benoit-Bryan, the executive director of SMU Data Arts and an arts management professor at Southern Methodist University, said that Cleveland is in an enviable position as it seeks ways to ensure strong public funding for the arts in the future.that has provided as stable and critical support,” she said, “but it also has a really engaged population who clearly participates in and benefits from the arts and believes in its value.”

These studies are keeping the way that the arts are funded in Cuyahoga County a secret -which has hurt local artist of color.

Bruce Cheefsky, a writer and artist, explained some of the issues in an article published more than a year ago:

“Artist and community activist Liz Maugans has attended most of the recent community meetings on arts funding, and she called for action in a recent email sent to artists in Cuyahoga County.

Maugans is a visual artist who co-founded Zygote Press, the Collective Arts Network, the Cleveland Artist Registry, and the Artist Bridge Coalition, and is director of Yards Projects at Worthington Yards and placed second for Best Community Activist in Scene’s Best of Cleveland 2023. She also writes the CULTURATI column for CoolCleveland.

She sent an email to her artist’s contacts and included the email addresses of Cuyahoga Arts and Culture (CAC) board: president Nancy Mendez, vice president Michele Scott Taylor, Daniel Blakemore, Karolyn Isenhart, and Charna Sherman. Cuyahoga County Chief of Communication and Strategy David Razum was also on her list. She said she was “shocked and appalled” at the lack of transparency by the CAC Board and staff at the September 13 meeting.

“I long ago lost confidence in [CAC Executive Director] Jill Paulsen, especially after she maligned the artist community for complaining — accurately! — that hundreds of thousands of dollars the Board budgeted for artist programming were secretly not spent or even rolled over as the Board had directed,” Maugans said in her email, “Chris Ronayne is also partly to blame as artists have recommended working-class ARTISTS (what a concept) to fill the vacant CAC Board seats in 2023, and those artists were never even contacted. Instead, Ronayne went with Jill’s recommendations, and here we are. NO artists are sitting on the CAC board.”

Maugans offered artists the option to use a letter she drafted, which asked CAC Board Members and County Executive Ronayne for “full and comprehensive information about spending options in advance of the possible new levy” and demanded that “members of the arts sector be afforded a meaningful opportunity to share their views on that information and the various options sufficiently before a recommendation is made to the Board in November to vote on when it will be too late.” Current cigarette tax funding will expire, and a new levy and campaign is on the horizon.

She ended, asking, “Why would we want another ten years of this broken, dysfunctional Board to tell us what is best for the arts and creative workforce in this county?”

As a full disclosure, I signed my name and sent a letter to the email addresses provided. So did many other artists and cultural workers. Less than a week later, Charna Sherman responded with her email, saying that CAC’s lack of transparency would jeopardize a campaign for a new levy.

Dear Artists who have written me, the rest of the CAC Board, and the County Executive:

Thank you so very much for making the effort to communicate your views. I trust you know that I share them and have attempted repeatedly — but thus far unsuccessfully — to convey and advocate for them to my sister CAC Board members. I fear that CAC’s demonstrable lack of transparency (both by our ED and the Board), the Board’s recent decision as to how to spend our funds in the next two years (which I opposed), and our far-too-bloated operational expenses will jeopardize a critical campaign to replenish our funds through a new levy. Only your continued advocacy and that of others can make a difference at this late hour in the process.

Sincerely, Charna Sherman, CAC Board Member

Five days after her email, cleveland.com ran a story about equity advocate Chinye “ChiChi” Nkemere, who was elected to a two-year term to succeed philanthropist and arts entrepreneur Fred Bidwell as chair of the 23-member Assembly for the Arts. Bidwell, who joined as president in June 2021, explained in an email exchange and phone interview with CoolCleveland that the change of leadership at the Assembly for the Arts was coincidental and had nothing to do with his public criticism of the CAC board meeting. Despite the optics, there is little reason to doubt him.

“When I agreed to be the founding board chair of the Assembly, I made it clear that I would step aside from the chair after the first two years. I am delighted that this plan was realized on time and as planned. The board of the Assembly is one of the most diverse and committed in Cleveland, and it is an important statement to the community that it is now led by a dynamic young black woman,” said Bidwell, who will retain the post of Chair of the Board of the Assembly for Action, the affiliated 501(c)4 that will lead the campaign to renew the cigarette tax.

In that role, Bidwell is at the center of advocacy for a new tax levy expected to be on the ballot in November 2024. As Chair of the Board of the Assembly for Action, he will be responsible, in part, for raising the nearly $1.5 million needed for the campaign. He is well aware of the short timeline. Despite recommendations from a consultant, CAC Executive Director Jill Paulsen has yet to announce a campaign date or strategy. Time is running out for her. Voting takes place in just thirteen months.

Assembly for the Arts is a 501(c)3 nonprofit organization that operates in close partnership with Cuyahoga Arts & Culture, a government agency, and Assembly for Action, a 501(c)4 political action nonprofit to serve the entire creative sector.

“It is difficult to build support for a ballot campaign, which is an expensive proposition and requires broad support from the community, where there are transparency issues,” Bidwell said when asked about his public comments following the September 13 CAC board meeting and affirmative vote. “The community never had a chance to see the funding options brought up in the meeting, particularly any of the direct stakeholders.”

Bidwell said he was surprised by the vote and decision made by the CAC board. Funding is critical, and if a levy does not get renewed and funding is lost, the results would be devastating to the cultural community. He remains committed to the tax renewal and to getting a successful campaign in 2024 but finds it hard to do so with questions and criticism swirling around from the community.

“The definition of democracy is that you have a discussion,” he said. “It is difficult to have voters and funders for a campaign if their voices are not heard. I want to be constructive, not destructive, but sometimes these things need to be said.”

As for individual artists, Bidwell thinks funding in recent years has not been significant and does not empower people to have sustainable careers.

“There has been a lot of concern about funding for individual artists. It is a very small portion of the total funding, but there is an argument that more money should be allocated to individual artists, a segment that has been the hardest hit,” he said.

According to Bidwell, the nonprofit community needs predictability from the CAC while planning their programs five years out and is open to rethinking how the funds get distributed. So far, the CAC has not provided it.

“N o b o d y wants conflict and criticism in the art community. Artists, arts administrators, and creative professionals support each other. We are pulling for the same goal, and to get successful campaign in 2024, we need to address those issues,” he said, ending the CoolCleveland interview with, “Thanks for your interest in this.”

She Spoke Out About Gaza. Now She Can’t Use a Credit Card

After accusing governments and corporations of complicity in Gaza, the U.N. investigator for Palestinian territories now finds herself in Washington’s crosshairs.

Francesca Albanese (see article below that was published this week last year) was on stage receiving a standing ovation when she first learned how the United States was going to punish her.

It was July 9 last year. The Italian legal expert, who is the U.N. special rapporteur on the situation of human rights in the Palestinian territories, was in the Slovenian capital Ljubljana wrapping up a two-hour talk on her most incendiary report yet.

As she spoke, her tone flicked between professorial bromides on international law and flares of outrage as she detailed how some of the world’s largest companies — including giants of American tech, energy and defense — were aiding Israel in the starvation and killing of the Palestinians of Gaza. Now and again she fixed the audience with a look of exasperation.

When the talk ended, Albanese stood to accept the crowd’s adulation. One of the organizers walked across the stage, leaned close and said into her ear: “The United States has imposed sanctions on you.”

Albanese’s head dropped. She stared at the floor, absorbing what it meant, thinking that she needed to call her husband and children. Sanctions would cut her and her family off from U.S. banking, travel and tech. Would they be okay? But the crowd was still there. Clapping. Hologram. Her head snapped up. She stretched her arms wide, palms facing her supporters, with a wry smile that said, “What are you gonna do?”

A few seconds later, she raised a fist in the air.

“I was scared and I thought: ‘What a mafia,’” she told me when we spoke in March, referring to the U.S. administration. “‘But they will not break us.’”

She is a vocal advocate for

the rights of the Palestinian people in their struggle with Israel, making her loved and loathed with equal extremes of feeling.

Albanese was among the first official voices to label what has happened in Gaza a genocide. In a statement last week, the Israeli mission to the U.N. Geneva said she had engaged in “virulent antisemitism.”

Her supporters — including human-rights activists, Palestinians, some Israelis and a vast legion of online followers — see Albanese as a rare and forceful voice piercing the cone of silence and indifference that has fallen over Gaza while a generational crime takes place within.

This has earned her powerful enemies. Israel and U.S. officials, antisemitism watchdogs and a group of European governments say she is an antisemite, whose simplistic depiction of the conflict and inflammatory language is fanning hatred toward Jews. Some Jews who might otherwise be sympathetic to her cause find some of her public statements — which, for instance, have drawn parallels between Israel’s government and the Nazis — troubling and offensive.

But even against a campaign to discredit and silence her, the U.S. sanctions were an escalation — and an impressive expression of American power and animus. She was, after all, an unpaid U.N. expert, whose only real weapon (aside from the symbolic authority of her office) was her voice. That’s a point her family will take up in a court in the District of Columbia on Wednesday as they challenge the sanctions on free-speech grounds.

Now she is under constraints normally reserved for narco-barons and terrorists. What had she done that was so threatening to the U.S.?

Albanese thinks she knows. “This fury comes because I poked the bear,” she said. “Not in one eye, in both eyes.”

Albanese was not always adversarial. Looking back at her younger self — a bookish kid from a strict, intellectual family in Ariano Irpino, a small town in southern Italy — she remembers a fine-honed sense of injustice to which she rarely gave voice.

She grew up admiring anti-fascist partisans like Sandro Pertini, Italy’s former president, and the prosecutors who exposed the mafia’s grip on the state, Giovanni Falcone and Paolo Borsellino. When she learned about the Catholic church covering up child abuse, she stopped going to Mass.

But mostly she was attracted to the power of institutions. After studying law, she went to work for the U.N., human rights NGOs and in academia and became a leading expert on the law governing Palestinian refugees. Then, in 2021, Michael Lynk, the special rapporteur on Palestine, suggested she apply to be his successor.

Whether she has been changed by what followed, or whether it revealed something hidden all along, Albanese has discovered a talent for not only documenting Israel’s abuses, but speaking about them.

“There is no glory in being a chronicler of a genocide,” she told the event in Slovenia. Yet she receives pop-star levels of adoration from her fans, which include 1.3 million followers on Instagram. They admire her frankness, courage and charisma — and her angular horn-rimmed glasses. Her daughter, she says, describes her as the Lorax — the Dr. Seuss character who makes a lonely stand for the trees even as they are chopped down — “apart from the mustache and the bald part.”

But history is often cruel to messengers. The Lorax was ignored and disappeared into the sky. Falcone and Borsellino were both blown up by the mafia in 1992. Albanese herself is being targeted by the most powerful government in the world. And it is upending her life, disrupting her family and leaving her financial future uncertain.

United Nations Emblem Albanese had to warn her researchers at Columbia University, which provided her U.N. office with student assistants, that continuing to work with her would place them in legal jeopardy.

“I’m good at doing what I do,” she said. “Which is part of the misfortune.”

Last Thursday, I spent the day with Albanese at the U.N. headquarters in Geneva, where she was presenting her latest report.

She is one of dozens of special rapporteurs tasked by the U.N. to report on human rights issues around the world. Her role, a post created in 1993, is specifically to investigate Israel for breaches of international law in the Palestinian territories. None of her predecessors have attracted anything approaching the level of global recognition Albanese has.

She took the role in 2022, just a year before Hamas committed the atrocities of Oct. 7, killing about 1,200 people in Israel and taking 251 hostages. Then Israel responded by killing more than 75,000 Gazans, according to independent researchers publishing in The Lancet, a medical journal.

Albanese was among the first official voices to label what has happened in Gaza a genocide, the conclusion of her March 2024 report. Eighteen months later, a U.N. commission concluded the same. In November 2024, the International Criminal Court issued arrest warrants for Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu and former Defense Minister Yoav Gallant over alleged war crimes and crimes against humanity in Gaza. Whatever the legal definition, more than half of the dead are women and children, according to the Lancet study.

The Israeli government did not respond to questions about Gaza nor Albanese. Last week in a statement posted online, the Israeli mission to the U.N. Geneva called Albanese “an agent of chaos” and said she had engaged in “virulent antisemitism, including peddling narratives that constitute Holocaust distortion and trivialization. She routinely makes statements supporting terrorist organizations, and advocates dangerous extremist narratives to undermine the very existence of the State of Israel.”

Since the beginning of the invasion, Albanese has “not had a day of lightness,” she said. When not traveling to promote her work, she works from her office on the first floor of their two-story house in Tunis, Tunisia, sifting through accounts of death, torture and rape. Her reports have titles like Russian novels: “Anatomy of a Genocide” from March 2024 and last week’s “Torture and genocide.” They condemn Israel in unambiguous terms.

“I don’t take it as an offense or as an insult when they tell me that I’m an activist,” she said. “What is the contrary? Being a pacifist? What does it mean being silent in the face of genocide?”

When I met her in Geneva, Albanese had been sleeping poorly. She was at the end of several days of nonstop meetings, events and press interviews to publicize her latest report — a synthesis of allegations of ongoing torture by Israeli authorities, drawn from more than 300 testimonies.

By lunchtime, she was visibly tired. Realizing she had an interview with the U.S.-based Democracy Now! TV program in eight minutes, she groaned. She begged her team for a sandwich, for a Ferrero Pocket Coffee, for a 20-minute lie-down. (She got the first two, but not the third.) She griped to the Democracy Now! producer about the hold music; then to me about the producer’s purported lack of humor. Even as the host Amy Goodman opened the segment, Albanese was slumped forward toward the computer, gray-black hair strewn across her face.

But when Goodman began to ask her about reports from recent days of a Palestinian father forced to watch as Israeli guards put out cigarettes on his toddler’s leg, Albanese was suddenly sitting straight, hair swept behind her ears, dangle red earrings clinking as she hit the end of every sentence like a chisel. My notes, taken during her response, read: “intentionally and sadistically ... torture, sodomitization ... orgy of depravity ... raped with a knife ... break their spirit.”

After the U.S. sanctions on Albanese were announced, she had one month to cut ties with the U.S.

Severing those ties would prove difficult.

She had lived in Washington D.C. for three years starting in 2012, where she and her husband still kept an apartment. They had been, in many ways, a typical family of the U.S. capital’s itinerant international elite. Her husband, Massimiliano Cali, is an Italian economist at the World Bank; Albanese had joined the Institute for the Study of International Migration at Georgetown University as an affiliated scholar and volunteered teaching yoga in a homeless shelter.

Facing the imminent freezing of their assets, they decided to sell the flat. “It was painful,” she said. It was where the older of their two daughters was born in 2013. It was where they returned whenever Cali needed to visit the Bank’s headquarters. They had just paid off the mortgage and much of their personal wealth was tied up in the apartment. With-in days, she said, a buyer came forward offering a fair price, knowing they were in trouble. Then the Treasury’s Office of Foreign Assets Control killed the sale.

Since 2021, the family has lived in Tunis, where Cali had been posted by the Bank. The lawsuit filed in the district court in Washington in February by Cali and Albanese’s 13-year-old eldest daughter — Albanese is unable to bring suit herself under U.N. rules — enumerates the impacts of the sanctions on the family: Not only has the U.S. blocked them from their property, but banks have frozen Albanese’s accounts. Transactions involving her are stopped because intermediaries, such as Stripe, are American. Her health insurance has halted payments. Hotels have canceled bookings in her name.

She lives as a “financial outcast,” she said. She hides her identity, surviving on cash and the goodwill of friends and family. “If I were alone, I would be utterly, utterly screwed,” she said.

She had to tell her researchers at Columbia University, which provided her U.N. office with student assistants, that continuing to work with her would place them in legal jeopardy. Georgetown closed her email account. (“Institutions are prohibited by federal law from affiliating with individuals subject to U.S. sanctions,” said a Georgetown spokesperson.)

Even her speaking appearances outside the United States are frequently cancelled on legal advice — or without any explanation at all. Experts she had communicated with in the course of her work told her their lawyers had advised them not to speak with her. In Signal chats, she watched as friends and collaborators quietly exited groups with her in them.

Cali worries for Albanese’s safety, she said. There have been creepy incidents. A passport in a hotel room, moved to a part of the room she hadn’t used. Broken glass evenly and carefully spread across the front doorstep of her home in Tunis — just where she stands barefoot every morning to wave her kids off to school. (Albanese did not make her husband available for this story.)

Her supporters — including human-rights activists, Palestinians, some Israelis and a vast legion of online followers — see Albanese as a rare and forceful voice piercing the cone of silence and indifference that has fallen over Gaza.

She said she’d heard from contacts “close to the Trump administration” who encouraged her to resign quietly, urging her to think about the toll this was taking on her family. (The White House did not respond to a request to comment on this.) The U.S. has barred Albanese and Cali from entering the country. This means their daughter, who is an American citizen but a minor, can’t realistically return to the land of her birth. It also means Cali has become the sole breadwinner and cannot set foot in World Bank HQ. Despite occasional grumbles from the kids who miss her as she travels constantly, she said, the family is steadfastly behind her.

Their oldest daughter faces additional legal uncertainty, her lawsuit claims. U.S. President Donald Trump’s executive order, on which the sanctions rest, makes it illegal for Americans to exchange “funds, goods, or services” with listed people. Albanese fears an overzealous prosecutor might pursue her teenaged daughter over a Christmas gift or a cup of coffee. OFAC, in a response to the filing, said it had created a parental exemption for transactions that are “essential to the maintenance” of their daughter. That could include, for example, school fees for the American school she attends in Tunis.

In the spring of last year, Albanese wrote letters to 48 companies, universities and financial institutions notifying them that, in her view, they were complicit in and profiting from a genocide.

Speaking Truth to Power: UN expert Francesca Albanese sanctioned by US

The Trump administration is imposing sanctions on the UN Human Rights Council special rapporteur Francesca Albanese, an outspoken critic of Israel’s military offensive in Gaza.

Secretary of State Marco Rubio linked the move to her support for the International Criminal Court (ICC), some of whose judges have already been sanctioned by the US.

Rubio said the US was sanctioning Albanese for directly engaging with the ICC in its efforts to prosecute American or Israeli nationals, accusing her of being unfit for service as a UN Special Rapporteur.

The sanctions are likely to prevent Albanese from travelling to the US and would block any assets she has in the country.

In a post on X, Albanese did not directly address the sanctions, but wrote: “[O]n this day more than ever: I stand firmly and convincingly on the side of justice, as I have always done.”

The message, in which the Italy-born special rapporteur reposted a thread of support for ICC, said she came from the court’s founding country, where lawyers and judges had “defended justice at great cost and often with their own life”.

“I intend to honor that tradition,” she added in the post.

Albanese declined to comment to the BBC, but was quoted by Al Jazeera as describing the sanctions as “mafia style intimidation techniques”.

It is the latest escalation by the Trump administration as it wages a campaign against the ICC, having already sanctioned four of its judges.

The US took the action after the court last year issued arrest warrants for Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu and his then-Defence Minister Yoav Gallant for alleged war crimes in Gaza, accusations they reject.

Rubio also accused Albanese of having “spewed unabashed antisemitism, expressed support for terrorism, and open contempt for the United States, Israel, and the West”.

The move is likely to provoke a fierce backlash from those who argue for accountability over the civilian death toll from Israel’s military offensive in Gaza.

The special rappor-

teur has long argued that Western governments are not doing enough to support the rights of Palestinians in the occupied Palestinian territories.

Her outspoken stance has attracted significant support among those who accuse Israeli and US leaders of weaponising accusations of antisemitism in order to silence scrutiny of their policies.

Her critics have pointed to language used in the past by Albanese, including a 2014 comment when she suggested the “Jewish lobby” was influencing US government decisions when it came to Israel and the Palestinians.

She is since reported to have said she regretted the remark, but rejected claims it was antisemitic.

The head of Amnesty International and former UN Special Rapporteur Agnes Callamard said she was dismayed by the decision to sanction Albanese.

“Governments around the world and all actors who believe in the rule-based order and international law must do everything in their power to mitigate and block the effect of the sanctions against Francesca Albanese,” she said.

Rubio said Albanese had shown contempt for the US by writing “threatening letters” to several US companies, making what he called unfounded accusations and recommending the ICC pursue prosecutions of the companies and their executives.

“We will not tolerate these campaigns of political and economic warfare, which threaten our national interests and sovereignty,” Rubio said.

Earlier this month Albanese called on dozens of multinational companies to stop doing business with Israel, warning them they risked being complicit in war crimes in Gaza and the occupied West Bank.

She said the companies “profited from the Israeli economy of illegal occupation, apartheid, and now genocide” in the occupied Palestinian territories. Israel rejected her report as “groundless”, saying it would “join the dustbin of history”.

Albanese has criticised Donald Trump’s plan, announced in February, to take over the Gaza Strip and displace its residents elsewhere.

sible because it will make the regional crisis even worse,” she said in February.

The timing of the sanctions announcement is notable with Netanyahu currently in Washington, where he received an extended honour cordon at the Pentagon on Wednesday.

Albanese has previously rejected similar claims against her, telling the BBC in October: “I don’t take these re-

At least 930 people have died in Congo's Ebola outbreak

At least 930 people have died in Congo's Ebola outbreak, the country's Ministry of Health said Monday, with 37 new deaths recorded in a 24-hour span Friday into Saturday, one of the highest totals.

The deaths were recorded out of the 2,344 cases confirmed as of Saturday, the health ministry said.

The Ebola outbreak that was declared in eastern Congo on May 15 is the fastest-growing Ebola outbreak on record. The Bundibugyo virus responsible for the outbreak is less common than others that cause Ebola disease, and there is no approved vaccine or treatment.

Health workers tend to an Ebola patient at the Rwampara Treatment Center in Ituri, Congo, Thursday, June 18, 2026.

Ebola is highly contagious and can be transmitted to people from wild animals. It spreads in the human population through contact with bodily fluids such as vomit, blood or semen, and with contaminated surfaces and materials such as bedding and clothing. The disease is rare but severe and often fatal.

The surge in deaths comes as safety fears have restricted the response in the worst-affected province of Ituri. A total of five provinces have been affected, all in the eastern region where rebel violence is rampant.

At least 12 attacks — mostly fueled by skepticism and rumors — have been recorded against health facilities and teams since the outbreak was declared in mid-May, authorities said Saturday. Many health workers meanwhile have walked off their jobs as they protest lack of payment.

At least 36 health workers infected with the virus have died.

The World Health Organization last week expressed concerns that 80% of new Ebola cases were emerging from unknown chains of transmission, a sign the outbreak is spreading faster than health officials can track despite an expanding response.

Congo's Health Ministry said in its latest update that 724 patients are currently in isolation and in hospitals, and that it is intensifying response efforts in affected health zones.

"Patient care and support capacities are consolidating, with 22 new recoveries recorded in 24 hours," the ministry said.

One of the world's rarest cats born at Cleveland zoo

A critically endangered big cat has made history in Ohio.

An Amur leopard cub born at Cleveland Metroparks Zoo has set a first for Ohio zoos, a significant development for a species thought to have fewer than 100 animals left in the wild.

The cub was born just after midnight on July 1 in Cleveland Metroparks Zoo's Asian Highlands area to 5-year-old mother Marta and 4-year-old father Syllas.

The arrival marks the zoo's first Amur leopard birth in its 144-year history and, according to GlobeNewswire, no other Ohio zoo has recorded one either.

Zoo staff said Marta and the cub have been spending time together behind the scenes and are being closely watched.

Keepers have already seen the cub feeding, being cleaned by Marta, and moving on its own, though visitors will need to wait several more weeks before it goes on view.

Because Amur leopards are typically solitary, Syllas is still visible to visitors while Marta remains with the cub. The cub's sex has not yet been confirmed.

The birth comes just weeks after a red panda cub was also born in Asian Highlands on June 21.

Few wild cats are as scarce as the Amur leopard.

Its wild population is limited to a small part of southwestern Primorye in Russia, where threats include poaching, forest exploitation, expanding infrastructure, and climate-related pressures.

Cleveland Metroparks Zoo noted that accredited zoos worldwide house only about 200 to 300 Amur leopards, so managed breeding plans are important for protecting genetic diversity.

Biodiversity helps ecosystems stay resilient, and strong ecosystems are linked to cleaner air, more stable natural systems, and stronger local economies built around science, stewardship, and responsible tourism.

The cub's birth is part of the Association of Zoos & Aquariums' Amur Leopard Species Survival Plan, which coordinates breeding to sustain healthy, genetically diverse populations of endangered animals in human care.

Cleveland Metroparks Zoo has also supported conservation work beyond its own campus.

The zoo has contributed more than $50,000 since 2013 to Amur tiger conservation initiatives that also help Amur leopards in their native habitat.

Efforts to protect forests, reduce poaching, and support field interventions can help multiple threatened species at the same time.
